Retrospective
Exhibition of Master
Artisan Yiu Li-Hai
at the Age of 86

Yiu, Li-Hai, known as "the treasure of Daxi", is a prolific artist throughout his life. He starts from the traditional and yet breaks convention to exhibit his own style, relying on his wind-like creativity. His artworks range from delicate wooden furnitures, landscape sculptures, photography, and horticulture. During the seventy years of his dedication to the amazing world of traditional woodcraft and artwork from learning the craft at early age, to starting his own business, and transcending convention in his later years. He shows the public his unique aesthetics on traditional humanities. This exhibition, named "Abode of A Roaming Heart", is a praise on the artist's artistic achievements and his decency.

"Roaming Heart" is a metaphor on the artist's devotion to his true love for art, as well as a praise on his craftsmanship spirit. "The scene describes the artist's sentiment; the art is a tool for artist's philosophical expression"- this is the artist's core thinking behind all his creations, telling us not just what the artist has realized towards life, but also the inner thoughts on art creation throughout his career.

Lecture performance aims to overcome restrictions on existing categories and space by combining lectures and performance, in an attempt to attract more potential audiences into theaters, as well as prompting them to blend their thoughts on performance into their daily living. This time, the performance will be the first large-scale lecture performance ever held in Taiwan. Created jointly by sociologist Ming Tsung Lee and Golden Bell Award-winning screenwriter Luo-Ying Wu, they take young crossover performance teams on a road to create a compound performance that includes lectures, short drama, recitation, dance, and music, which allows the audiences to traverse the realm of others and self, the realm of real life and fictitious stories. The audiences will explore ways to find their rocking moment by looking at each individual's physical and mental defeat or quagmire.
