SUBMISSION

TAOYUAN INTERNATIONAL ART AWARD

“2023 Taoyuan International Art Award,” organized by Taoyuan Museum of Fine Arts, calls for entries from 4 April to 22 April 2022. New works created by individual or group disregard nationality that have yet been exhibited nor recognized by any award at home or abroad are eligible for registration.

With an aim to promote the experiment and innovation of contemporary art, Taoyuan International Art Award provides a platform for creation and exchanges to incubate new generation of artists, enhance international art exchanges, and cultivate art research and practices. The Award is organized biennially, with one year for entry submission from around the world and one year for exhibition, so that artists can have more time for work creation and exhibition planning.

The Call for Entries is open to works of any material, category, or field. Artists can submit entry either in Chinese or in English. One winner for “Grand Prize” will be determined from the shortlist with a prize of NTD 600,000 and three winners for “Honorable Mention” with a prize of NTD 200,000. Visit <http://tmofa-tiaa.com/> for more details and prospectus.

Calligraphy Exhibition

“Qing Huan You Wei” (Happiness in Life) is the last sentence of Su Dongpo’s poem “Wang Xi Sha-Xi Yu Xie Fong Zuo Xiao Han” (the Melody of Sandy Creek in the Misty Morning). This tune poem describes the arrival of spring as symbolized in Spring, 2022, it is the best time to come to visit the calligraphy exhibition. Master Zhang is a calligrapher of the highest attainments. In 1988, he was the winner of the Taoyuan County Artists Heritage Exhibition while in 2010, he received the Golden Goblet Award in Calligraphy from the Graphic Art Society of R.O.C. These demonstrated his achievements in calligraphy and devotion to calligraphy promotion.

The “SEE SEA” Exhibition

The sea, the origin of all creatures, and a vessel for cultures. The sea is a cradle of life and carries memories of humanity: the sea connects the world, just as the seas are connected.

As people of an island nation, we are no strangers to the sea. Islands and the sea depend on each other to thrive – they are inseparable. Waves push water onto shores, and pull the land back into the sea, acting as a courier between two places, exchanging messages. Since ancient times, humans never cease to explore the sea. And artists have discovered muses in the boundless sea and translated their inspiration into new-found imagination, showing the thousands of faces of the sea to audiences.

“See Sea” exhibition has invited six teams of artists, including Superbien Studio from France, Yuko Mohri from Japan, and Taiwanese artists Lee Chia-hsiang & Lee Wei-ying, Chiu Chieh-sen & Margot Guillemot, Hu Chin-hsiang & Tsai Bing-hua, and Tsai Wan-shuen. The artists created an immersive ocean theater, art installations, videos, and new media projects in conjunction with an interactive area that is guaranteed to spark children’s curiosity in exploring the sea.

Messages from the sea push and pull on human imagination and creativity like fluctuating tides. The exhibition invites friends of all ages to come and walk closer to the sea. Try to capture every message the sea is trying to send us using all your senses. Rekindle your longing for the sea, and broaden your perspective of the world, and of life.
