The 2020 Mother of the Year Recognition Ceremony in Pingzhen District

In order to honor those mothers who have demonstrated their dedication and commitment to motherhood, a ceremony was held on May 1 (Saturday) at 1pm in the Auditorium of the Pingzhen Women's and Children's Activity Centre, hosted by the District Director, Cheng, Ching-Wen.

Director Cheng said that this year, a total of 47 mothers were selected by village chiefs and the Indigenous Peoples' Association. Every one of these mothers has a heart-warming story to tell, and their remarkable achievements serve as an example of how to build a peaceful society. In addition to paying respect to these mothers, the event also aims to bring warmth to the community and to remind children to appreciate their parents' hard work as well as be grateful to them so that the families and society can be more harmonious.

Among the mothers recognized this year, Ms. Hu Rong took up all the responsibilities to take care for her sick relatives at home when she was young. After her sick relatives passed away, she thought her suffering would be over, but found out that her eldest son was diagnosed with moderate intellectual disability; despite all the challenges she faced, Ms. Hu Rong was still very optimistic and never gave up, showing the strong and fearless nature of motherhood, thus she deserved to be awarded as an outstanding mother of the year!

To celebrate this event, the Pingzhen District Office has invited municipal officials, legislators, and village chiefs to attend the event to honor these mothers. In addition, a book of each mother's story will be published to commemorate the event. It is hoped that through today's event, we can all express our deepest gratitude to the great mothers.
